Ideas from Public Sought for Stevens Creek Trail Connection

SUNNYVALE, Calif. – The cities of Cupertino, Los Altos, Mountain View and Sunnyvale are hosting the first in a series of public meetings designed to gather input from the community about how and where to complete a multi-use trail in the Stevens Creek Corridor between Cupertino and Mountain View.

The meeting will be held on Wednesday, November 14 at 7 p.m. in the Grant Park Center at 1570 Holt Ave. in Los Altos. Participants will learn about the existing features of the Stevens Creek Trail Corridor and be asked to provide their specific ideas for trail connection options and the opportunities and constraints for each.

A total of six public input meetings are planned through fall 2013 as part of a study the four cities jointly commissioned to develop trail connection options for consideration by their respective city councils. This initial meeting serves as the basis for identifying the complete universe of trail connection options that will then be analyzed and narrowed during the next three phases of the study. In those phases, City of Sunnyvale staff and a consultant will assess each trail alignment, refine and identify the most feasible alignments and present a final report with a recommended preferred alignment.
