SUNNYVALE POPULATION GAINS, SAYS STATE

SUNNYVALE, Calif. – The City of Sunnyvale has gained more than six hundred new residents, says the California State Department of Finance (DOF). In the statewide population count just issued, Sunnyvale’s population rose to 141,099, up .73 percent from 140,450. Sunnyvale remains the second-largest city in Santa Clara County, following San Jose with 958,789 residents, and leading Santa Clara with 118,169.

The Sunnyvale uses the DOF population report as the City’s official population. Each year the DOF provides updated population data for the entire state.
