408-730-7350 · Sunnyvale.ca.gov · recreation@sunnyvale.ca.gov

Overview

The City of Sunnyvale has long maintained an illness policy for recreation participants. However, the COVID-19 pandemic requires additional measures. Health checks, hand washing requirements, and strict “feeling sick” requirements will be in place until further notice because the health and safety of our community and program participants is a priority for the City of Sunnyvale.

The City has implemented additional health measures and requirements to address concerns and recommendations related to COVID-19. The City may update this policy from time to time to incorporate new recommendations from the CDC, California Department Public Health and other health authorities as appropriate. The Participant Policy and Wellness Requirements are for everyone’s benefit during this unique time.

Policy

Recreation participants must comply with the following health and illness policies. Refusal or failure to comply with health and illness requirements will be grounds for termination of participation.

- Cover coughs and sneezes
- Wear face covering when directed by staff
- Wash or clean hands frequently and as directed by staff

3. Standards for Returning to In-Person Programs After Illness

If you or anyone in your household have been sick, you may not return to in-person programs until you meet the following criteria:

- At least 3 days (72 hours) have passed since recovery (defined as resolution of fever without the use of fever-reducing medications and improvement in respiratory symptoms such as cough, shortness of breath); and
- At least 10 days have passed since symptoms first appeared

4. Health Screenings

- The City reserves the right to ask health screening questions and conduct temperature checks prior to allowing participation for in-person programs such as camps
